April Vote On Candler Park Community Health Center

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services has developed a plan for public health priorities for the current decade. One primary objective is the elimination of disparities in health care, and healthcare access for U.S. minority populations. For the first time in this report, the Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual, Transgender (GLBT) community has been identified as a group that is disproportionately impacted by health issues such as obesity, depression, violence, and some cancers.

The GLBT population in the Atlanta metropolitan area is estimated at 150,000 to 400,000 people. Though little information is available to talk about the impact of these issues on the GLBT community, a recent Columbia University white paper documents that many GLBT persons fail to access health care because they fear discrimination by health care providers, family members, employers and others. In addition, experience has shown that many health care providers fail to understand GLBT health issues or how to address them.

To address the need for primary care services for under- and uninsured members of the Atlanta GLBT community, a group of local volunteers came together in February 2000 to form the Atlanta Gay and Lesbian Health Initiative (AGLHI). The group is working in collaboration with the Oakhurst Medical Center, a federally-funded community health center in Decatur. Together, they developed a plan to make primary care services available to un- and underinsured people in an environment that is comfortable and safe for GLBT persons.

On February 28, 2001 the AGLHI submitted a grant proposal to the Health

Vote On Co-Housing Development At April Meeting

Kelly Jordan, owner of parcels of undeveloped land between Marion Avenue and Miller Avenue (west of Oakdale), currently zoned R-4 (single-family residential), seeks rezoning to PDH (Planned Development Housing) to allow development of a co-housing community, consisting of approximately thirteen closely-spaced single-family dwellings with a large adjacent open space held in common.

Jordan held an informal meeting at his residence at 420 Oakdale Road on Sunday, March 25th at 5:00 PM. Neighbors interested in his project for rezoning to a co-housing community were shown concept plans and given opportunities to express concerns and offer suggestions. In conjunction with this project, the applicant expressed his intention to minimize surface run-off from the clustering of residential

New Discussion Procedure Set For April Meeting

Several people may want to speak regarding both the Co-Housing Community and the Candler Park Community Health Center issues that are on the CPNO agenda for April 9 (see related stories on the cover).

To allow everyone a chance to be heard, and at the same time ensure that we have the time to fully debate both issues and conduct other business, the Executive Committee has decided to try the following at the April meeting:

- 1) Each person wishing to speak on an issue will be allotted two minutes.
- 2) All persons wishing to speak on an issue will be allowed to do so before anyone can speak twice.

We will attempt to hold the discussion on each issue to 30 minutes. —Greg Smith structures and through cooperation with municipal authorities to relieve paving requirements along Miller and Marion Avenues. A large open space of land to the west (bordering the rear of homes on the east side of Sterling Street) will be held in common by owners of each property in the co-housing development, and may also be subjected to conservation easements. A proposed nature trail may also link this property with other open spaces adjoining McLendon Avenue. Separately, the applicant has another undeveloped parcel of land, currently zoned R-4, located north of McLendon Avenue (west of Oakdale Road, east of Sterling Street, adjacent to an existing two-story apartment building), which he indicated will be developed as three single-family detached residences with a central open space to be utilized as a community garden. In both matters, it was observed that existing zoning will allow for construction of detached dwellings on both parcels, but in a manner that would not preserve the single large open space preserved by the applicant's plan. A vote to approve the project, based on final site plans and architectural details, will be taken at the April CPNO general meeting, following which the applicant anticipates seeking approval of NPU-N board members in late April, and approval of the City of Atlanta Zoning Review Board in early June. Please plan to attend these meetings to show your support or to express any concerns you may have regarding this project. For more information, please contact the applicant Kelly Jordan (404-522-8629), CPNO Zoning VP Walt Weimar (404-377-1411) or NPU delegate Lexa King at (404-584-5050).

Ad Rate Increase Notice

Effective with the June 2001 issue, ad rates for The Messenger will increase to $4 per line for classified ads, $14 per column inch for display ads. All prepaid ad contracts in place prior to May 19, 2001 will "lock in" the old rate for the life of the contract.

Resources and Services Administration to establish a primary care clinic in the Atlanta area that will be open to all, but focused on providing care that is appropriate for and respectful of GLBT persons, particularly people who have difficulty accessing health care. Services that will be provided at the clinic include routine physical exams, immunizations, screening and treatment for chronic conditions like high blood pressure, diabetes and asthma, age-appropriate cancer screening, and a variety of other primary care services. A referral network of GLBT-friendly providers will be established to provide follow-up care and services which are not offered at the clinic. Although health insurance will be billed and a sliding fee scale will be established, no one will be refused services.

In order for the clinic to be successful, it is essential that it be located in a neighborhood that is central, diverse, accessible by public transportation, safe, and GLBT-friendly. The Epworth United Methodist Church has tentatively agreed to host the clinic in its space. Representatives of AGLHI will attend the CPNO meeting on Monday, April 9 to provide additional information and respond to questions and concerns. Community input is critical to the successful development and operation of the clinic so Candler Park residents are encouraged to attend.

A Resident's Opinion: Illegal Signs Are Out Of Control

Is it just me or is anyone else sick of seeing these illegal signs posted on telephone poles and other right-of-ways?

You know the signs I mean, that read "I buy houses" or announcing some wonderful job where you work from home and can make a million dollars. Or better yet, the ones that will give you any amount of money you want. Of course they don't tell you that your interest rate on these loans are often 25% and that if you are even a day late they will come and take your home.

And that's much the same with all these illegal signs: they all advertise some kind of scam. These signs litter our streets and are an insult not only with the visual pollution but with the actual content as well.

So, who falls for these scams? Obviously people do or they would have given up placing the signs. Their target audience is the elderly with little or no income, or people that have got themselves into such a situation that they are willing to believe anyone with a plan to save them. These scam artists take advantage of these people with the end result that many of them lose their homes.

So why is it that these signs that are placed in the right-of-way, in complete disregard to city ordinances that could fine them up to $1,000 plus 6 months in jail, still hang from telephone poles in our neighborhoods?

I believe it starts with the inaction of our wonderfully useless city officials. These officials themselves come election time will be disobeying their own ordinances and placing signs in the right-of-way. It is now at the point where these political signs are placed on the freeways. How long will it be before someone is killed on a freeway trying to put up a sign? Calls to the police or city officials are met with anything from "don't waste my time" to "oh, there's nothing we can do." The police are frustrated because any attempt to bring the owners of the signs to court results in a slap on the wrist by the judge. Again there are plenty of judges that place their signs illegally too.

So what's to be done?

A few of us have made attempts to pull these signs down. This is a time consuming and often fruitless experience, as it seems they can put them up a lot faster than we can take them down. We also put ourselves at risk from the owners of these signs, who are under the impression that they have the right to litter our streets.

I myself had a ReMax Realtor (Jeff Weisberger) see me taking out his signs that were not even anywhere near the house he had for sale, and make a false report to the police that I had crashed into his car and left the scene. This caused me to have to appear to the police and prove my innocence, whereas he would not even report to the police station and make his statement. The police found no evidence that I had hit his car in any way in the manner he described, and they were considering charging him with making a false statement. Of course he continued to ignore them and nothing was done.

Then once again I caught two characters nailing up signs that they "buy houses" right in the neighborhood of our own Major. And yet again I'm being falsely charged with assault and robbery. And yet it seems nothing is done about the signs they put up.

We as neighbors are the only ones that can solve this problem, by standing together and raising one voice to tell the city to take notice, that these signs must stop. That a slap-on-the-wrist $50 fine is not enough to stop repeat offenders, and that we want the police to pursue sign owners and bring them to court.

In the next few weeks I will be putting together petitions to deliver to our Major, police chief and code enforcement officers. I hope when these are ready you will join me in signing and delivering them.

Are The Kids Ready To Play?

As of press deadline, the Bureau of Parks had committed to finishing the walkways around the Candler Park Playground and adding the mulch under the playground equipment by the end of March. We hope by the time you're reading this that these things have been completed and neighborhood kids are already enjoying their new playground!

If the schedule has been delayed due to weather, we'll be looking for quick completion shortly after. If you have any questions or concerns and would like to speak with the Bureau of Parks directly, their phone number is 404.817.6740.

The last details for the new playground will be finished during April. These include stripping and painting the few pieces of old equipment that were kept, adding some type of stone pillars or benches with plaques to recognize our large donors, and laying the engraved bricks that so many of you purchased to help obtain all the fabulous new equipment.

Although the kids won't have to wait for it, we will be having an official Grand Re-Opening Celebration to introduce the new playground and honor all of our donors. The date has been set for Saturday, May 19, barring any unforeseen delays. We're planning all kinds of fun stuff, so mark your calendars now, and look for more details in the May issue of The Messenger! —Stacy Williams

Answer These Five Questions And Help Stop Traffic Mayhem In Candler Park

CPNO is asking neighborhood residents to complete and return the traffic calming survey enclosed in this month's newsletter. For the more electronically inclined, the survey can be found on the web at www.candlerpark.org, including a Word version you can return via e-mail. The surveys will provide a database for developing a comprehensive traffic calming plan for the entire neighborhood.

The more surveys we get, the stronger our argument for implementing these measures.

Please take the time to fill out and return the survey, and encourage your neighbors to do the same! When you fill out your form, please consider streets other than your own that face heavy traffic and speeding. For more information regarding this effort, please contact Gary Brown (gmartinbrown@mindspring.com or 404-378-6247) or George Dusenbury (dc_dusenbury@yahoo.com or 404-373-0428).

VARIANCE REQUESTS

Discussion and voting on the following issues will be held at the April CPNO meeting.

OAKDALE/MCLENDRON - Kelly Jordan, owner of property located near the northwest corner of Oakdale Road and McLendon Avenue, seeks a rezoning of multiple parcels from existing single-family or multi-family residential zoning classifications (R-4, R-5 or similar) to a proposed combined zoning of PDH (Planned Development Housing). See separate article in this issue in regard to this project.

630 OAKDALE ROAD - Worth Lee Sides and James Daryl Atkins, owners of an existing single-family residence at 630 Oakdale Road (a triangular lot at the intersection with Euclid Avenue), currently zoned R-3, seek a variance for construction of a 2.5-foot retaining wall (replacing an existing 4-foot brick-and-concrete retaining wall) and construction of a 6-foot vinyl fence along the southerly portion of the Euclid Avenue frontage of the property (half-depth side-yard opposite the one-story residential structure).

1287 MCLENDRON AVENUE - Adam Maloney (for Quinco Companies LLC), owner of property at 1287 McLendon Avenue (currently zoned R-4), seeks approval of a variance to reduce the required 17.5-foot half-depth front yard along Candler Street to the 8-foot depth of an existing single-family residential structure, due to the proposed enclosure of a porch. The applicant has stated that the proposed improvements will not alter the existing structure's roofline or "footprint", except that an outdoor deck of equal 8-foot depth variance is also proposed, adjacent to the proposed porch enclosure.
